THE COMING CONTEST -The Fall election in Ohio is fast approaching. Are the Democracy prepared for action? Has division been rebuked—sectional interests laid aside for the noble work of saving the State from bank misrule and bank plunderers? Are all ready to go into the contest like men, fighting to preserve principles long cherished, from the foul polluted touch of bank myrmidons, who openly proclaim, that if they get the power, they will establish a State bank and branches; and to do which they will have to increase the State debt, increase the taxes of the people; and, finally, to make the State of Ohio form a partnership with bankers, to plunder the unsuspecting and unwary. If these things are as they should be, then action is the

"Charge upon the Federal cohorts, that as a party, they have, to their utmost, resisted every attempt to make banks safe, and bankers honest.

"Charge home upon their leaders the foul treason which they perpetrated in breaking up the legislative branch of the State Government; and upon the party, that they justified it.

"Charge upon them the non-redemption of their promises in 1840. "Charge upon them, that their Coon Congress repudiated the compromise act, which their own 'Tippeca noe,' as well as 'Tyler too,' pledged himself should not be altered or repealed.

"Charge upon them, that the last Congress, composed of a majority of fifty Federalists, after being in session seventeen months, and violating the compromise act, and repealing the independent Treasury bill, passed, as the only measure of relief to the people, the Bank-rupt act, and by which millions upon millions of honest debts were wiped off by the oaths of swindlers. "Charge upon them, that so great and so foul was the infamy of this relief measure, that the People rose, almost as one man against it; and that the very Congress which passed it, in affright were forced to repeal it. "Charge upon them, that their President, elected in 1840-their own honest John Tyler-ordered the troops of the United States into a sovereign State, to put down, at the point of the bayonet, a people struggling to be free, and to obtain from a landed aristocracy the right of voting, and which right, though exercised in the same State by many negroes, was refused to the mass of the whites, and that, in this high-handed outrage, the Federal party sustained the President and applauded the act. "Charge upon them, that, though they have only been in power since the 4th of March, 1841, yet in that time they have already saddled a large national debt upon the country, and that the expenses of the Government, which they claimed ought not to ex-ceed thirteen millions, are now much greater than un-

England. "Charge upon them, that, in 1840, they said they were opposed to a United States Bank; and that as soon as they got the power, they passed two, which were vetoed by John Tyler; and that they only refused to pass the third, because John Tyler recommended it.

"Charge upon them, that, though they now say, that they are opposed to a miscalled Protective Tariff, yet it is only because, from the recent elections, they know it to be an utter impossibility that they can get a majority in Congress; and that, should they ever again have a majority in the national councils, they will, as in the case of their violated pledges in regard to the Bank, saddle upon this country a Tariff, which would protect the interest of the people as the 'vulture protects the lamb-first covering, and then devouring it. "Charge upon them, that their leaders are unworthy and that (to use the language of John Quincy Adams, as annihed to them) 'they are bound together only by a cement of hatred to every man of purer principles than themselves; and, if this charge be denied, appeal to their recollection of the bacchanalian revels of the hard eider campaign of 1840 in proof of the facts."]

But there is one most important charge omitted in this schedule. It is, that Federalism most solemnly pledged itself to proscribe proscription, declaring that it was against the genius of the Government to make the political tenets of a man the test of his qualification; and that the removal of one class of men, to introduce another in the offices of the Government, as one party or the other prevailed in the contest, was to stake the Government up as a prize for combatants, and to render all the honor and emolument it could confer but the wages of corruption to the mercenaries employed to fight the battle for its conquest; and yet to public trusts, more absolutely the mere considera-tion of partizan service than ever before in this or any other country. Under the present incumbent in the Chief Magistracy, the tenure of office and qualifications for public trust are not made dependent on political principle or opinion; merely adhering to an individual, and promoting his personal objects—himself adhering to no party or political course, any further than they may advance his individual interest-is now the sole criterion of fitness for office.

THE ENEMY'S LAST CARD. The exceeding mortification and chagrin of the Whig party, harmony and good feeling prevailed in the late Democratic Convention. In the selection of delegates a just regard for the particular preferences of every section of the State has been consulted, and though all could not be pleased, all were satisfied; and the result is already manifest that the Democratic party of New York are now more firmly united than before that Convention. It is most rare, that a body of this kind, and on such an occasion, acts with so little diversity of sentiment; and it affords the best assurance, that there is a firmer bond of union among Democrats than a mere preference for any man, no matter how distinguished or how wor-thy, and that bend is principle.

In the extremity of their mortification, we perceive that the Whig papers are now setting to work with in-sinuations, that the delegates to the Syracuse Convention were not fairly appointed by the several counties for which they purported to act, and that "they were an unauthorized, undelegated body."

The object of these efforts is manifest. It is to ex-The object of these efforts is manifest. It is to excite a distrust among our Southern Democratic brethern of the fairness of the Syracuse proceedings.—Slanders are put afford by the New York Express, a leading Clay print, and are likely to have an extensive circulation. Though coming from a source entitled, under the circumstances, to little or no consideration, we conceive it due to the subject to correct these misstatements, not only as matter of history, but to prevent any future misunderstandings.

The several county conventions which appointed the State delegates, were scarcely ever more numerously attended. In many counties the delegations the State delegates, were scarcely ever more numerously attended. In many connies the delegations were full from every town. This was regarded as a remarkable circumstance at this busy season of the year, and it proves that the Democrats were out in their strength at the primary meetings. From time to time, the names of the town delegates to the county conventious have been published in full, in this paper, with their resolutions. By a reference to these names, it will be seen that the primary conventions were larger than usual. It will be remarked also, that in nearly every county convention in which resolutions of any kind were adopted, (and the number in which they were altogether omitted did not exceed six or eight,) kind were adopted, (and the number in which they were altogether omitted did not exceed six or eight,) resolutions unequivocally declaring Martin Van Buren their first choice and their preference, were adopted without a dissenting voice. We believe that it is not too much to say, that a degree of unanimity like this, on any important question, never before pervaded the 220 000 Democratic Electors of the Empire State.

It is true, that the formality of presenting credentials to the Convention, was by common consent, dispensed to the Convention, was by common consent dispensed with. Col. Young stated, that in his own case, and that of his colleague, Mr. Gardner, no credentials had been furnished by the Secretaries of the county Convention; but that the fact of their selection was perfectly well known, and was undisputed. The same perfectly well known, and was undisputed. The same remark was applicable to a few other counties. But generally the delegates handed in either the certified or published proceedings of the county Convention; and these remain in the hands of the Secretaries. As not a single seat was contested, and as the names of the delegates had been printed and published in the county newspapers, and generally in the Argas, at d were well known, there could not be a possible doubt as to who were the duly appointed delegates to the Whig press, and have shown them to be as untrue as they are unfair. We wish our Southern brethren to know that while the Democracy of this State are earnest in their preference for the man of the ir choice, they have acted throughout all their proceedings with equal liber ifity and justice, and with an entire conformity to the Democratic sentiment of the State - [Albany Argus.
